

MEDIA RELEASE

Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency for the District of Columbia
Acting Director
Adrienne Poteat

Acting Deputy Director
Cedric Hendricks

For Immediate Release, February 23, 2009

Faith-Based Television and Radio Programs Available from Federal Agency in Washington, D.C.

The Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency (CSOSA) is a federal, executive branch entity providing parole and probation services to Washington, D.C. CSOSA offers a faith-based program involving approximately 200 volunteer mentors who work with offenders requesting their services.

CSOSA also created a social media service titled "DC Public Safety." It offers radio, television, articles and transcripts. Programs are available at <http://media.csosa.gov>

The programs below interview offenders and staff regarding their experiences as they adjust to life after prison. The titles are direct links to the programs. The programs are in the public domain (with attribution) and have been used by thousands to learn about the power of faith-based initiatives in offender reentry activities.

Television Programs

Faith Based Mentoring of Criminal Offenders

Radio Programs

Released from Parole Supervision-Faith Based Programs

Prison Fellowship and Offender Reentry

First Person to Surrender During Fugitive Safe Surrender:Follow-up Interview

Faith and Community Based Reentry and Mentoring Program: US Department of Labor

Faith and Community-Based Reentry and Jobs Program:US Department of Labor

Faith-Based Offenders and Reentry

Returning Offenders-Reentry from Prison

Faith Based Mentoring of Criminal Offenders

Previously Incarcerated Persons \(PIPS\)–An Interview

Mentoring Offenders Released From Prison: A Faith-Based Program

Welcome Home

CSOSA Faith Based Initiatives Overview

Faith Based Programs

###